The art of pipe-making

The art of pipe-making is based on old and noble traditions. These, coupled with many years of determined effort, have created the manufacture of the STANWELL pipe, which caters for the special and individual taste of pipe lovers all over the world.

The STANWELL is a speciality pipe, made by skilled craftsmen in a modern factory. They are carved from the finest, most carefully selected briar roots from Corsica and Greece and they represent a thorough and accurate application of skill combined with the most modern technique.

Unlike the mass produced pipes that all resemble each other, STANWELL pipes are made in special designs. Every pipe smoker's wish with regard to shape, quality and appearance can be fulfilled. A glance at the following pages will indicate some of the Special Models created by us.

Sand blasting

A jet of sand under high pressure is blasted onto the briarwood surface removing the softer wood and bringing out the grain in relief.

Det rå hoved slibes med sandpapir adskillige gange for at frembringe den lækre, silkebløde overflade.

Sandpapering

The raw bowl is sandpapered several times to produce a lovely silky surface.
